La Reserva de la Biosfera de Pfälzerwald, en el suroeste de Alemania, se caracteriza por bosques mixtos ricos en biodiversidad, que se alternan con paisajes abiertos y semiabiertos de valles de praderas, pastizales y huertos. Otros elementos típicos del paisaje cultural son las imponentes rocas de arenisca, las numerosas ruinas de castillos medievales y los viñedos suavemente ondulados que se encuentran al este de la cordillera más baja. Junto a Vosges du Nord, Pfälzerwald forma la única reserva de biosfera transfronteriza en Alemania. La región se caracteriza por su silvicultura, viticultura y turismo.
